The larger houses report sales well up to those of last year, though prices are lower, and a belief that the next month will witness a condition of trade that will compensate for the quiet that has been entailed by bud weather." The following, from the same paper, is less agreeable: "Thus far the clique appear to be satisfied simply with advancing the premium and a moderately high price for the use , but their control of the market. and their ability to make what figures they please, is scarcely a matter of doubt. What little gold there is in hand has been quietly absorbed, and the mercantile community are naturally filled with alarm at the prespect. Little or no ald can come from the government, for the amount held in the United States treasury after the payment of the May dividends and the redemption of the called bonds will be small. It is therefore more than likely that while there may be no culmination of speculation in the shape of another Black Friday, the excitement will be continued, and the pool may succeed in working their figures up to the predicted limit, to-wit, from 120 to 125. It is certainly not a safe time for any man to sell gold short." The New York World, speaking of the same subject, expresses the opinion that eventually the clique will find that they have made nothing by their operations. Exchange in our market has undergone a slight modification in rate, on the east and north the buying rate is now par, selling at 1 premium as before; on New Orleans the rate continues to be | discount, selling at par, at which it is very firm. Tennessee new issue was again without any transaction; the Nashville Union and American of Wednesday, reports as follows: "We hear of nothing doing in the new issue bank of Tennessee notes. Dealers pay 40c for small lots, while round lots could not be sold. Holders are not disposed to sell. Comptroller's warrants are dull, with no demand by tax-payers. Dealers pay 90@92 and sell at 93@95" Shelby county scrip is in diminished inquiry. and brokers now offer only 70 and sell at 75. City notes are inquired for, and we heard that in one case 624 was offered, but the only sale we heard of was at the former rate, $1400 at 60. We have been informed that as high as 70 has been paid, and that the notes are worth 75, but we have no reports of sales at those rates. In the absence of such reports we cannot vouch for anything beyond 60, although the paper may be worth more; sales made in secret, and that
